Faculty of Health and Social Development
The Faculty of Health and Social Development builds on the foundations of disciplinary excellence to construct unique interprofessional and interdisciplinary educational programming and research, as well as interprofessional practice opportunities within a community-based framework.

The Faculty currently offers a Bachelor of Human Kinetics through the School of Health and Exercise Sciences, and a Bachelor of Science in Nursing through the School of Nursing. At the graduate level the Faculty collaborates with other faculties to offer interdisciplinary master's and doctoral degree programs. Programs of study leading to the Master of Science in Nursing and the Master of Social Work degrees are also available.

See the School of Health and Exercise Sciences for information on the Human Kinetics program available at the UBC Okanagan campus.

See the School of Nursing for information on Nursing programs available at the UBC Okanagan campus.

See the School of Social Work for information on Social Work programs available at the UBC Okanagan campus.

See the College of Graduate Studies for information on graduate-level interdisciplinary, Nursing, and Social Work programs available at the UBC Okanagan campus.

Last updated: May 22, 2019